Lisbon, Portugal

Lisbon is the stunning capital city of Portugal, and is one of the most charismatic and vibrant cities of Western Europe. It is a city that effortlessly blends traditional heritage, with striking modernism and progressive thinking. As a holiday or work destination, Lisbon offers a rich and varied history, lively nightlife and is blessed with a glorious year-round climate.

Lisbon city perfectly reflects the Portuguese culture, which embraces modern culture whilst maintaining its unique heritage and traditions. Lisbon is constantly recognized as one of the greatest cities in the world, a claim confirmed by the "Lonely Planet Guides", which named Lisbon as one of the top 10 cities in the world to visit.

Lisbon is close to a stunning coast lined with beautiful sandy beaches, which are only a short bus or train ride away. There are two easily accessible coastal regions from Lisbon; Cascais-Estoril region (to the west of Lisbon) and Costa Caprica (to the south of Lisbon).

Top sights

Mosteiro dos Jerónimos

This imperious 15th-century Manueline monastery was built to commemorate Vasco da Gama's "discovery" of India. The main attraction is the delicate Gothic chapel that opens up on to a grand monastery, in which some of Portugal's greatest historical figures are entombed.

Castelo São Jorge

The winding medieval streets of Lisbon's most ancient neighbourhood, Alfama, twist up to the city's Moorish pinnacle. The dusk-orange walls of the ancient castle date back to the ninth-century and lord over the city, being visible from almost every street.

Tram 28

The most charming way to tick off a few sights, the wooden tram 28 rumbles through Lisbon's prettiest and most historic streets. Starting at the foot of Bairro Alto, the vintage carriage trundles through the shopping districts of Baixa and Chiado before lurching and labouring past the churches and castles on the cobbled hills of the Alfama and Graça neighbourhoods.

Torre de Belém

A symbol of maritime Lisbon, this Byzantine and Gothic tower stands out over the mouth of the Tejo, guarding the entrance to the city's harbor. Reached via a walkway raised out of the water on timbers, the tower is filled with intricate stonework and has wide Atlantic views.

Museu Gulbenkian

One of the 20th century's great philanthropists, Armenian Calouste Gulbenkian, left much of his art and historic artefacts to his favoured city, Lisbon. The museum set up in his honour now houses one of Europe's most epic collections. Look out for priceless Hellenic vases, ancient Chinese porcelain and paintings by Rembrandt, Monet and Van Dyck. There's also an affiliated modern art museum opposite.

Napoli, Italy

Italy's third-largest city is one of its oldest, most artistic and most appetizing. Naples' Centro storico (historic center) is a Unesco World Heritage Site, its archaeological treasures are among the world's most important, and its swag of vainglorious palaces, castles and churches make Rome look positively provincial.

Then there's the food. Blessed with rich volcanic soils, a bountiful sea, and centuries of culinary know-how, the Naples region is one of Italy's epicurean heavyweights, serving up the country's best pizza, pasta and coffee, and many of its most celebrated seafood dishes, street snacks and sweet treats.

Certainly, Naples' urban sprawl can feel anarchic, tattered and unloved. But look beyond the grime, graffiti and occasional gruffness and you'll uncover a city of breathtaking frescoes, sculptures and panoramas, of unexpected elegance, of spontaneous conversations and profound humanity. Welcome to Italy's most unlikely masterpiece.

Top sights

Museo Archeologico Nazionale

Naples' National Archaeological Museum serves up one of the world's finest collections of Graeco-Roman artefacts. Originally a cavalry barracks and later seat of the city's university, the museum was established by the Bourbon king Charles VII in the late 18th century to house the antiquities he inherited from his mother, Elisabetta Farnese, as well as treasures looted from Pompeii and Herculaneum. Star exhibits include the celebrated Toro Farnese (Farnese Bull) sculpture and a series of awe-inspiring mosaics from Pompeii's Casa del Fauno.

Palazzo Reale di Capodimonte

Originally designed as a hunting lodge for Charles VII of Bourbon, this monumental palace was begun in 1738 and took more than a century to complete. It's now home to the Museo Nazionale di Capodimonte, southern Italy's largest and richest art gallery. Its vast collection – much of which Charles inherited from his mother, Elisabetta Farnese – was moved here in 1759 and ranges from exquisite 12th-century altarpieces to works by Botticelli, Caravaggio, Titian and Andy Warhol.

Cappella Sansevero

It's in this Masonic-inspired baroque chapel that you'll find Giuseppe Sanmartino's incredible sculpture, Cristo velato (Veiled Christ), its marble veil so realistic that it's tempting to try to lift it and view Christ underneath. It's one of several artistic wonders that include Francesco Queirolo's sculpture Disinganno (Disillusion), Antonio Corradini's Pudicizia (Modesty) and riotously colourful frescoes by Francesco Maria Russo, the latter untouched since their creation in 1749.

Catacombe di San Gennaro

Naples' oldest and most sacred catacombs became a Christian pilgrimage site when San Gennaro's body was interred here in the 5th century. The carefully restored site allows visitors to experience an evocative other world of tombs, corridors and broad vestibules, its treasures including 2nd-century Christian frescoes, 5th-century mosaics and the oldest known portrait of San Gennaro.

Royal Continental hotel*

Via Partenope 38/44, Lungomare Caracciolo, 80121 Naples, Italy

In 1949, engineer Roberto Fernandes acquired the Grand Hotel Royal des Etrangers. The 19th century building, considered one of Naples' seafont symbols, hosted illustrious figures such as Oscar Wilde until, at the end of World War II, German troops burned him.

In 1955, where the historic hotel was built, the Royal Hotel was inaugurated by Ferdinando Chiaromonte and the same engineer Fernandes. Gio Ponti later intervened in the design of the furnishings, in the design of the pool and in the realization of the logotype.

The task of designing and furnishing the interior of the hotel was entrusted to the Italian architect and designer Gio Ponti. The principle he applied to the structure was: "Every furniture, while still functional, must affect the imagination of those who draw it and those who look at it ". This is how materials such as frisé maple, mahogany striped and roots became chest of drawers with three drawers, circular mirror toiletries, folding planes to be used as scribes.

Today you can stay in one of the 24 rooms of the Gio Ponti Floor museum, design of the author.

Valencia, Spain

Spain's third-largest city is a magnificent place, content for Madrid and Barcelona to grab the headlines while it gets on with being a wonderfully liveable city with thriving cultural, eating and nightlife scenes.

Never afraid to innovate, Valencia diverted its flood-prone river to the outskirts of town and converted the former riverbed into a superb green ribbon of park winding right through the city.

On it are the strikingly futuristic buildings of the Ciudad de las Artes y las Ciencias, designed by local boy Santiago Calatrava. Other brilliant contemporary buildings grace the city, which also has a fistful of fabulous Modernista architecture, great museums and a large, characterful old quarter.

Valencia, surrounded by its huerta, a fertile fruit-and-veg farmland, is famous as the home of rice dishes such as paella, but its buzzy dining scene offers plenty more besides.

Top sights

Catedral

Valencia's cathedral was built over the mosque after the 1238 reconquest. Its low, wide, brick-vaulted triple nave is mostly Gothic, with neoclassical side chapels. Highlights are rich Italianate frescoes above the altarpiece, a pair of Goyas in the Capilla de San Francisco de Borja, and...ta-dah...in the flamboyant Gothic Capilla del Santo Cáliz, what's claimed to be the Holy Grail from which Christ sipped during the Last Supper. It's a Roman-era agate cup, later modified, so at least the date is right.

La Lonja

This splendid building, a Unesco World Heritage site, was originally Valencia's silk and commodity exchange, built in the late 15th century when Valencia was booming. It's one of Spain's finest examples of a civil Gothic building. Two main structures flank a citrus-studded courtyard: the magnificent Sala de Contratación, a cathedral of commerce with soaring twisted pillars, and the Consulado del Mar, where a maritime tribunal sat. The top floor boasts a stunning coffered ceiling brought here from another building.

Museo de Bellas Artes

Bright and spacious, this gallery ranks among Spain's best. Highlights include a collection of magnificent late-medieval altarpieces, and works by several Spanish masters, including some great Goya portraits, a haunting Velázquez selfie, an El Greco John the Baptist, Murillos, Riberas and works by the Ribaltas, father and son. Downstairs, an excellent series of rooms focuses on the great, versatile Valencian painter Joaquín Sorolla (1863–1923), who, at his best, seemed to capture the spirit of an age through sensitive portraiture.

Ciudad de las Artes y las Ciencias

The aesthetically stunning City of Arts & Sciences occupies a massive 350,000-sq-metre swath of the old Turia riverbed. It's mostly the work of world-famous, locally born architect Santiago Calatrava. He's a controversial figure for many Valencians, who complain about the expense, and various design flaws that have necessitated major repairs here. Nevertheless, if your taxes weren't involved, it's awe-inspiring stuff, and pleasingly family-oriented.

My personal recommendation

Destinations:

- ❖ Lisbon My personal recommendation for this group will be Lisbon. This city offers many special attractions and places for dinner activities. Lisbon Airport is the 24th largest airport in Europe and the largest airport among all destinations offer as well direct flight to U.S. Valencia offer perfect weather during September for all activities; the average temperature during September is around 26°C.
- ❖ Valencia Second recommended destination. Nice city with few nice attractions. Valencia Airport offer direct flights to 20 European countries but no direct flights to U.S.; guests can also enjoy fast train from Madrid. Valencia is blessed with a typical Mediterranean climate. By September, the weather is beginning to take an autumnal turn. The average temperature is around 22°C.
- ❖ Napoli I Nice but not recommended destination due to hotel variety and style. Napoli is a small city with old style hotels that offer different hotel style and service then expected for TEVA Summit event, Napels International Airport offer direct flight to several cities in Europe mainly, no direct flight to U.S. September temperatures cool down just a little, making this the ideal time to visit Naples for those who enjoy sun. The average temperature of around 22°C.
- ❖ Dubrovnik during requested dates there is another congress confirmed (XVth EUROPEAN POULTRY CONFERENCE) Therefore I definitely do not recommend considering this destination.

Hotels:

- ❖ Marriot Lisbon Hotel Excellent business oriented hotel confirmed 250 rooms for the group. We negotiated special reduced rates and excellent flexible conditions. Marriott Lisbon offer large meeting space variety located at the same floor with option to increase number of people for cabaret style as well. NBS have great relationship with management and we booked the same hotel for EAN 2018 for TEVA group.
- ❖ SANA Lisboa Hotel, Renovated hotel offer high standard, and great large meeting space. Hotels' location in the city is an advantage to offer guests easy access to main attractions. Due to our great relationship with management and large volume of work during 2018 we managed to book an option for all 250 rooms, around 90% of total hotel rooms. Meeting rooms located near each other on the same floor. We have great experience with SANA hotel and booked with them already 2 groups for 2018. Booking.com rate: 9.2!
- ❖ Meliá Valencia Modern business stylish hotel offers high standards service and facilities. We managed to book 250 rooms, around 80% of total hotel rooms. Melia Valencia offers excellent modern wide choice of meeting space with option to increase number of guest for cabaret style as well. Excellent rates and conditions.
